TOWN BULLPUPS.

Now is the dullest and the hardest time of the year, and the season when busy wide-awake merchants should be doing some good advertising to stimulate trade and to move certain lines of goods, but it seems that Hayti advertisers, instead of doubling their energies and taking more space, some of them are trying to quit advertising altogether. In view of the fact that all the towns around Hayti are advertising and taking our own trade away from us, it looks bad. One merchant can advertise and pull for trade just as well as another; if he will only try, but the more advertising merchants a town has, the better it is for the entire town and the more each advertiser will receive for his expenditure.

A dozen good advertisements, going out from Hayti would carry more force and bring more results than one. The advertisement of one merchant is helpful to the entire town and every merchant in town, and if a dozen merchants advertise the town and the business receive just that much benefit, for when buyers come to town they will scatter out and spend money all over town.

There is no such thing as building up a town and bringing trade to it without advertising, and a town where merchants do not and will not advertise must sooner or later lose its prestige and become only a wide place in the road, while the more progressive and pushing towns prosper and grow, and become cities.

The outside world judges a town by the people in it, and it is right. A town is what its people make it.

If it did not pay to advertise do you suppose that the largest and best business houses and the best towns would keep up their advertising? The right kind of advertising, the kind that shows truth, life and energy, and is kept up all the time, is the kind that pays, the kind that builds cities, keeps the home paper alive and creates a prosperous trading point.

Look at our advertising columns, people, and see who helps to support the paper and to advertise the town, and how much they are doing it. These are the men who are doing the town the most good and they deserve your trade. Buy your goods from our advertisers.

Do you get up these melancholy meetings with a dark-brown taste in your mouth, or have symptoms of the goat pain over the eyes, rheumatism, neuralgia or fainting spells, if so it is a sure sign that you are not well and your departure to that mysterious land beyond might be expected at any moment. So go ye straightway to the office of your county newspaper and pay up your subscription and thereby insure yourself solid for a good obituary notice.

Deal with our advertisers.

Proclamation.

To the Citizens of Hayti:

Whereas, a great number of premises and out houses in the City of Hayti are in an unhealthy and unsanitary condition; and,

Whereas, the condition of said premises and out houses are such as to endanger the health and general welfare of the people of said city;

Now, therefore, I, John T. Buckley, Mayor of the City of Hayti, by virtue of the authority in me vested by the law and the ordinances of said city, direct and require every owner, lessor and occupant of such premises and out houses to proceed at once and put same in a clean, healthy and sanitary condition, on or before the 15th day of June, 1909, and every person who fails, neglects or refuses to comply with this requirement will be prosecuted and dealt with as provided by ordinances of said city.

Every one should feel enough pride and interest in the health, beauty and general welfare of our city to make a special effort along these lines. It will be a small effort on each one's part, and the benefits cannot be overestimated.

This June 1, 1909.

JOHN T. BUCKLEY, Mayor.
